- Frequently Asked Questions -

1. Is decorative concrete a fad?

No, decorative concrete has become the most cost-effective way to add value to your property.

2. How many colors are there to choose from?

Depending on the type of stain chosen, there is a very wide variety of colors. About 42 colors for Dye Stain.

3. Is it necessary to recolor the surface?

Re-coloring is an option when it is time to reseal the surface concrete. The color will always be there. It is the seal that enhances the color.

4. Is it necessary to reseal the surface?

Yes. The time frame before resealing depends on wear. With normal residential use the seal will last 3-5 years.

5. Are decorative concrete floors slippery?

They can be, especially when wet, but no more so than vinyl, linoleum, marble, or ceramic tile floors.

6. What is a concrete overlay?

A decorative concrete overlay is just that; it is a highly durable thin set layer of hybrid polymer concrete that overlays an existing patio, floor, foyer, driveway or sidewalk.

7. What if there is an existing crack in the surface of the concrete?

If the crack is a 'moving' crack then it will continue cracking until the foundation is corrected. However, if the crack is 'non moving' you can cover it up with an overlay or keep the crack. Most clients find that it adds beautiful character.
